Read our web accessibility statement, contact us about alternative document formats or adapt your computer to your needs using the resources.

Accessibility statement

Web accessibility helps make website content available to all users, regardless of browsing technology (such as text-only web browsers), disability, or access requirements.

Parliament is committed to making our website accessible to everyone. We are constantly working to make our website as accessible and usable as possible.

We're using the W3C Web Content Accessibility Guidelines 2.0 and aim to meet the WCAG AA conformance level.

Request documents in a different format

Please contact us if you need a document in a different format so we can discuss your requirements.

Viewing this website

This website has been designed to be compatible with all modern browsers. Not every browser will allow you to change the way you view the page, but here are some tips that may make our site more accessible for you.

- This site is best viewed in 1024 x 768 pixels or above, using 256 colours or above
- You may be able to change the size of the text and alter the choice of font
- When you search for a job, click on the refresh button or F5 on your keyboard (Command + R for Mac users) on each page visited to ensure your settings are maintained

Keyboard access

It should be possible to access all parts of the site using just a keyboard. Most browsers support jumping to specific links by using the tab function. If you have any problems, please do contact us.

Accessibility help

Please visit AbilityNet for guidance on adapting your computer to your accessibility needs. The site shows you how to:

- make your mouse easier to use
- use keyboard shortcuts instead of a mouse
- talk to your device
- get your device to read content
- make text larger
- change text and background colours

- magnify the screen
